The glass is complete. It comprises a bowl, a stem and a foot. The bowl is slightly flared and has a straight rim; its base is tapered towards the stem, which is solid and in the shape of an inverted baluster that flares out at its base. The foot is circular with a truncated cone profile at the top. The underside shows a trace of glass pontil. There is a glass burr at the junction of stem and foot. It is geometric. The lower third of the bowl is adorned with vertical flutes with domed tops. These become small vertical ribs on the stem, which extend to the foot.
