

Bottle

<https://collections.pacmusee.qc.ca/en/objects/bottle-2018-010-0546/>

Collections / Post-war to present day / bottle

CC BY-NC-ND 4.0 license

The bottle is complete. It is circular in shape. The shoulder is rounded, the neck short and straight, topped by a swollen lip with a domed top. The side of the bottle is rounded, with a narrow base. The base is swollen and rests on a flat bottom free of coating and glaze. The handle is vertical. Oval in shape and flattened oval in cross-section, its upper end is tied to the neck below the neck, while the other is folded down and rests on the shoulder; its end has been flattened. There is a hand-engraved mark below the bottom, in two registers: S J Pottery ; The decoration is applied, incised and molded. It is of the anthropomorphic type. A brown iron coating has been applied to the outer wall and handle. A salt glaze appears to cover the exterior of the object, giving it a shiny appearance. The incised decoration is visible on the neck, and consists of three superimposed grooves. The molded decoration consists of a medallion in relief applied to the wall opposite the handle, surrounded by three plant motifs; a mask of a bearded man is applied to the neck and shoulder.

Accession Number 2018.10.546

Fabricant / Éditeur S J pottery (Sue Skinner, Joe Jostes)

Date 2000 c

Materials ceramics, coarse stoneware, salt glaze

Measurements 25,6 x 4,299 cm

© Collection Pointe-à-Callière, Paul-Gaston L'Anglais fonds,2018.010.0546

Photo by RBPHOTO