

Container

<https://collections.pacmusee.qc.ca/en/objects/container-2021-059-056/>

Collections / Native cultures / container

CC BY-NC-ND 4.0 license

Birch bark container of Native American origin. Pieces of birch bark are sewn together with thin strips of spruce root. A wooden trim is attached to the rim of the container to strengthen it. The rim is circular, the base square. The surfaces of the container are waterproofed with a clay-based mixture inside and out.

Accession Number 2021.59.56

Period 20th century

Materials bark, birch, pigment, root, spruce, wood

Measurements 8 x 30 cm

© Pointe-à-Callière Collection, donation by Jacques Lacaille, 2021.059.056

Photo by Michel Pinault

On display