

Dessert cup

<https://collections.pacmusee.qc.ca/en/objects/dessert-cup-2018-010-0497/>

Collections / From the Conquest to the founding of Canada / dessert cup

CC BY-NC-ND 4.0 license

The bowl is complete. This object was known as Jelly glass. It is cylindrical in shape. It comprises a bowl, a stem and a foot. Its wall is high, slightly flared towards the rim, which is also flared. The inner base has a convex bulge. At its base, the bowl curves towards the stem, which is solid. It is composed of a half-bouton resting on a stem flared towards the foot. The foot is circular, with a truncated cone profile at the top. The underside shows a trace of glass pontil. There is a glass burr at the junction of stem and foot. It is geometric. The lower half of the bowl is adorned with uneven fluting with a domed top. On the stem, these become small vertical ribs that extend to the foot. The half-buttons of the stem are also decorated with these small vertical ribs.

Accession Number 2018.10.497

Date 1820 c

Materials British lead-colorless glass

Measurements 10,9 x 5,96 cm

© Collection Pointe-à-Callière, Paul-Gaston L'Anglais fonds, 2018.010.0497

Photo by René Bouchard

On display