The oil set holder is complete, with the exception of a small fragment on the rim of one of the containers, which shows breaks repaired with glue. It comprises two straight-topped cylindrical containers bound together with paste, and is fitted with a solid vertical handle with a half-oval cross-section. The underside of the containers is slightly concave and glaze-free.

The body is red in color and covered with a bluish-white glaze; the decoration is molded and hand-painted in gray underglaze; it is traced in black and painted in gray. It is floral in style. The molded decoration is visible on the upper rim of the containers, which features a bulging ring. Painted decoration is visible on the outer wall and on the handle. The swollen ring is surmounted by a fillet. The wall decoration is set between two broad grey fillets. The decoration is identical on both containers, and consists of the same mirrored motif: a five-petal flower followed by a long leafy stem, all outlined in black and painted gray. The face of the handle is adorned with large, superimposed horizontal lines painted in black.
